MOROCCAN TILES HOUSE

The Moroccan Mosaic & Tile is an irreplaceable element of Moroccan architecture. It has been perfectly adapted to contemporary styles of decoration while preserving artisanal touch. "We have incorporated several techniques and improvements to our product in order to make it more attractive and more durable" Matser Ben Doumia.

Moroccan Mosaic tiles, also known as Moroccan Zellige, are a treasured tradition that has passed down for centuries from generation to generation to ensure the sustainability of these art. Proud to carry on this tradition, we work hard to develop methods and techniques to improve and innovate in our production process while keeping the traditional and artisanal aspect.

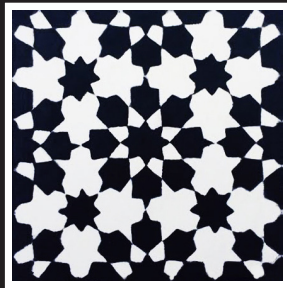

La mosaïque et la mosaïque marocaine sont une composante indispensable de l'architecture marocaine. Elle s'est parfaitement adaptée aux styles contemporains de décoration tout en préservant la touche artisanale. "Nous avons intégré plusieurs techniques et améliorations à nos produits pour les rendre plus attrayants et plus résistants", a déclaré Maître Ben Doumia.

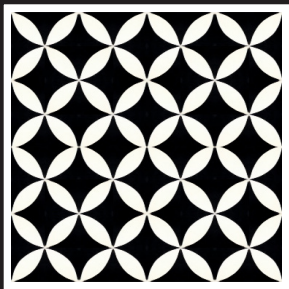

La mosaïque marocaine ou Zellige marocain, est une tradition précieuse qui s'est transmise à nous de génération en génération pour assurer la pérennité de cet art. Fiers de perpétuer cette tradition, nous travaillons dur pour développer des méthodes et des techniques innovantes de production tout en conservant leur aspect artisanal et traditionnel.

Mosaic is a Moroccan handicraft technique of tilework appeared in Morocco in the 10th century. In Arabic, zellige means little polished stone. The technique involves assembling different colored and shaped fragments of clay based ceramic cooked in fire to become glazed tiles to form geometric patterns that can repeat endlessly.

La mosaïque est une technique artisanale marocaine du carrelage apparue au Maroc au 10ème siècle. En arabe, zellige signifie petite pierre polie. La technique consiste à assembler des fragments de céramique à base d'argile cuits au feu de couleurs et de formes différentes pour en faire des carreaux émaillés afin de former des motifs géométriques pouvant se répéter à l'infini.
